My true talent is spatial. This ability to visualise objects in three-dimensional space gives me a unique view of the world. I understand how figures can be manipulated and take on new forms. Because of this talent, I can imagine new designs easily, including anything from floor plans to page layouts and even 3D product prototypes. I am great when it comes to putting together assemble-it-yourself furniture or other household items whether the items arrive with instructions or not. My spatial skills also help me understand the finer points of how things work.

I am pleasant, easygoing, and usually fun to work with. I come up with great ideas, and am a major asset in brainstorming sessions. Follow through, tends to be a problem however; I get bored quickly, especially if a newer, more interesting project comes along. I'm also procrastinators, both about meeting hard deadlines and about per-forming any small, uninteresting tasks that I've been assigned. I am most useful when working in a group.

Am I Naughty or Nice? I'm pretty tame but most people think I'm as good as gold. Sure, I'm generally a by-the-book, law-abiding model citizen, but every once in a while I like to break a rule or three. Skinny-dipping? Done it. Had a drink too many now and then? Guilty as charged. But that's pretty much the worst of it. We all have a few skeletons in our closet, but when it comes right down to it, I'm a nice person. I wouldn't dream of making a serious play for my best friend's squeeze, and I always pay my traffic fines, speeding and parking tickets. It's a good balance. If everyone were like me, the world would be a happier place!

I'm not someone who is considered dependable, except perhaps in a crisis. I have little concern for the consequences of my own actions and avoid most commitments. This tendency is not conducive to developing trusting and enduring relationships.

I like pictorial and verbal description of sexual scenes, in as implicit a manner as can be procured. I like pornographic material. I don't withdraw from manifestations of sexual passion, I like to think of lovemaking and indulge in it. I don't feel nervous with the opposite sex, and I am not nervous and embarrassed when talking about sex and I don't fear sexual relationships. Being good in bed is important in a partner and I value sex and lay emphasis on intercourse. But I don't regard my sex partner simply as a sex object; I do pay attention to his personality, individual temperament and character. But I have a pretty strong sex drive, and I need to feel satisfied with my sex life.
