I'm an architect. For me, the world is like one giant puzzle, just waiting to be solved. In my undying quest for the truth, I'm best at finding solutions to complex problems. Lucky for all of you, though, I love to share my brilliant thoughts.

I'm an achiever. I'm very adaptable and success-oriented. I'm self-assured, attractive, and charming. Ambitious, competent, and energetic, I'm also status-conscious and highly driven for advancement. I'm diplomatic and poised, but can also be overly concerned with my image and what others think of me. I have problems with workaholicism and competitiveness. But I'm self-accepting and authentic. I am a role model who inspires others.

My confidence level is high. As a result, I view myself as a wonderful, lucky and energised person. However I also have my days when I don't feel so hot. After all, I'm only human. Because of my usual high level of self-acceptance and belief in myself, I'm generally open and accepting of others. People who come in contact with me likely to appreciate this generous nature and may seek out my company.

When it comes to how I present myself to the world, I strongly believe that keeping things simple - whether it's my relationships, career, or face soap - is the best way to be beautiful. I'm satisfied with what nature gave me and am not afraid to show my confident, unadorned self to the world. My beauty routine is all about maintenance. I keep my skin clean, my body moisturised and I just add a splash of colour to lips and eyes when the situation demands it. Other than that? I feel best looking as fresh as nature intended. Although, in the course of being au naturelle, I sometimes forget to cut loose and have fun. I should feel freer to dress up or splurge on a sent and spoil myself, now and then.

I exude femininity and sensuality. I view men as the perfect counterpart to my womanly ways. But I don't appreciate casual encounters. Rather, I prefer purity and tradition. Because of these predilections, I tend to attract men who understand my nature and possess maturity and seriousness beyond their years. When I finally arrive at the bedroom and my divine qualities are released, I reveal such sensuality that the experience is unforgettable. In other words, with the right guy, I really know how to get wild in the sack. In fact, when the mood strikes, I can easily drive my man crazy. But out of respect for my inner nature, I require love and devotion from my partners. I am an attentive and giving lover whom knows how to make my man feel sexy, appreciated, and fulfilled.
